Notes & Special Stitches

Looking for an easy and fun stitch to add texture to your fabric? Look no further! Our four-row repeat stocking stitch ridge is just what you need. By combining knit, knit decreases, knit increases, and purl rows, this stitch creates a delightful texture with lines crossing the fabric. And the best part? The decreased stitches also create a slight eyelet effect. Let's get knitting!

Knit 2 Together (k2tog):

Notes On Sizing:

This Stockinette Ridge Stitch Blanket can be created with any weight of yarn. Simply cast-on the first row in an even amount of stitches to your desired width. Then, work the 4 row repeat, changing colors as often as you want! Get ready to snuggle up under this cozy creation.

Stockinette Ridge Stitch Blanket - Written Instructions

Set Up: Long Tail On or Cable Cast On 50 sts, or any multiple of 2 for the width of the blanket.

Row 1: p1, *k2tog; repeat * to last stitch, p1. 26 sts

Row 2: k1, *kf&b; repeat * to last stitch, k1. 50 sts

Row 3: Purl. 50 sts

Row 4: Knit. 50 sts

This is a four row repeat for the stitch pattern. Repeat Rows 1-4 and alternate yarn colors when you no longer have enough to complete another row. This will happen approximately every 12 rows.

Bind off in stockinette pattern, weave in ends.

More About Briana K Designs

Hello, my fellow crafters!

I feel we are all natural-born artists nourishing our talents throughout our entire lives.

I've been fortunate enough to have found a home in the fiber arts community where my passions for crochet, knit, and cross stitch can grow.

I'm a Florida girl for over a decade, but I lived in the Rocky Mountains for my childhood. A place where I understood the value of warm hats and mittens. While I love nature and hiking, I've grown extremely fond of the sunny beaches.

If you have made an item using one of my patterns I would love to see it! Simply use the tag @brianakdesigns or #brianakdesigns
